PREPARATORY to the Marshall Islands "mop up," in which the greatest naval task force in history is engaged and a record breaking concentration of aircraft carriers is participating, several key islands were "softened up"—and one of them was Wake, a Japanese base, shown in this unusual aerial view during a U. S. bomber attack. The smoke is rising from destroyed oil tanks and military installations. Note the airfield runway—always an objective for the bombers. (International)

Tons of Explosives Hurlled Into Heavily Fortified Bases by Bombers and by Guns of Warships of Assembled American Naval Might as Invasion Launched Against Bulwark in Defenses of Tokyo—Marines and Soldiers Stream Ashore

By WILLIAM HIPPLE

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 2.—(AP)—United States forces which successfully invaded Japan's Marshall Islands by a bold, back-door route battled today for Kwajalein Atoll, a key position so strategic that its conquest may in due time topple the Japanese from 800 square miles of the mid-Pacific. They were bulwarked by more than 2,000,000 tons of naval might.

Troops who landed Monday after a terrific three-day bombardment of enemy positions, quickly threw up beachheads on at least 10 of the 30-odd islets forming the central, and largest, of the chain of mid-Pacific bases.

The Japanese showed little resistance at some invasion points. Admiral Nimitz, in announcing the start of the expected offensive against the mandated islands, told of strong opposition, apparently at the major islets of long, narrow Kwajalein.

Warships poured thousands of tons of explosives into enemy installations in clearing the way for the troop landings, and even before the actual invasion carrier planes destroyed or damaged 113 Japanese planes, mostly at Roi.

American commanders expressed confidence in final victory founded on the knowledge they had the support of the greatest sea armada ever assembled. But they cautioned against expecting a quick campaign like the three-day conquest of The Gilberts, 300 miles to the south.

Against strong opposition, Fourth Division Marines under Major General Harry Schmidt won islet positions near the enemy Roi Air Base on the northern end of this world's largest atoll.

Nearly 60 miles to the south, the Army's Seventh Infantry Division veterans of Attu under Maj. Gen. Charles H. Corlett, landed close to Kwajalein Islet, a heavily defended shipping, sea-plane and submarine base.

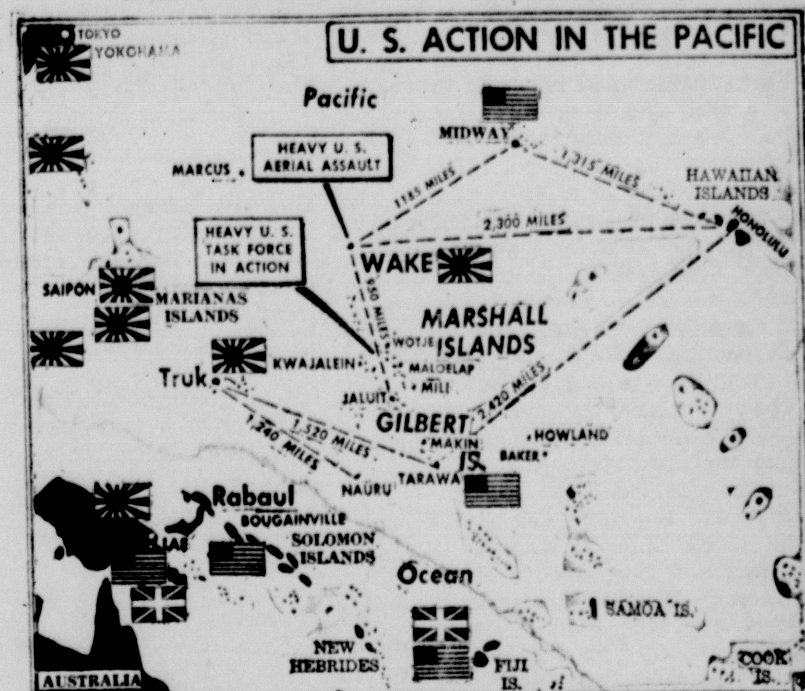

Sixty-six-mile-long Kwajalein Atoll is the hub of defenses among the 32 Marshall atolls which bar the way to Japan's naval base of Truk, more than 1,200 miles to the southwest, and to Tokyo 2,700 statute miles to the northwest.

Under the overall command of Vice Adm. R. A. Spruance, the most powerful fleet assembled, including new battleships, aircraft carriers and even secret type vessels, escorted the transports and landing craft to the invasion scene, 2,000 miles southwest of Pearl Harbor. Before the landings, big guns of the naval escort churned Kwajalein and other atolls with a terrific bombardment.

"Wherever we search, the whole damn Pacific is filling up with warships," a pilot had exclaimed on returning in a plane to his carrier while the invasion force was nearing the objective.

Constant support is being afforded the ground forces by land-based planes—Seventh AAF units of Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale;

THE AMERICAN DRIVE in the central Pacific, which is aimed at the Marshall Islands, spreads to Wake Island, which was captured by the Japanese after a gallant but futile stand by U. S. Marines in the early stages of the war. The raid on Wake Island was the first since Oct. 5 when warships and planes hit Japanese installations with more than 1,000 tons of explosives. ## Tough Fight Likely Before Marshalls Cleaned Up Of Japs

Most Powerful Naval Force Ever Assembled Backs Men Put Ashore With Guns and Bayonets - - - Many Tiny Bases In Pacific Island Group

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Don't expect any 76-hour miracle capture of the Marshall Islands.

It's true Adm. Chester W. Nimitz sent the world's greatest naval force and many thousands of Marines and soldiers into the newest Central Pacific operation, but weeks of fierce fighting can be expected before the complete capture of the Marshalls.

The Japanese have many times more bases in the Marshalls than they had in the Gilberts, captured in a 76-hour campaign. They also have spent more years in fortifying them.

It's no secret now even to the Japanese that the hundreds of ships involved constitute the most powerful naval units ever assembled, even including the fleet assembled for the invasion of Sicily.

Hundreds of fighters and bombers are providing an almost continuous aerial umbrella. Vice Adm. R. A. Spruance, commander of the Central Pacific, operating from a warship in the heart of the Marshalls, has been given a fleet considered capable of overwhelming anything the Japanese might throw against him.

The greatest threat to the naval force appears to be from the air. But even this danger has been reduced to a minimum by the use of the sun. . . her profound observation was greeted with loud guffaws. . . which she greeted with wide-eyed amazement and the further observation. . . "if he's sittin' in the shade, he wouldn't see his shadow and wouldn't know he should go back in his hole for another six weeks". . . just about the time that had sunk in. . . she broke out this one: . . . "And I suppose he'd just keep on coming out and would freeze to death."

So, if you're been worrying about the groundhog seeing his shadow all these years. . . and dashing back into his burrow while six weeks more of cold weather chills the outer air. . . you can start worrying about the position of the sun and the shade over his den, too. . . yes, leave it to a blue-eyed blonde to complicate things.

Gardening isn't the only interest of the Sabina Garden Club. Its roster of activities includes building, paying for and insuring the community honor roll, complete with flag staff. The group collects sales tax receipts to help finance its projects. The honor roll is to be re-decorated when weather permits. . . Flower shows, special guest speakers and music have featured the club's meetings. Cards and flowers are sent whenever any member is ill or in sorrow. Besides these activities, club members do Red Cross sewing and knitting as well as defense work.

Leave it to a pretty little blue-eyed blonde to complicate things. . . to mention names, obviously, would not be the thing. . . because little blue-eyed blondes too often hear they're pretty anyway. This is not to imply that she is beautiful but dumb. . . on the contrary, it would seem that her observation not only was pertinent but wise. . . at least I never heard the question raised before. . . said she, during an earnest discussion of the whys and wherefores of groundhogs, shadows and weather. . . "Well, I suppose it would depend on the position of the sun". . . her profound observation was greeted with loud guffaws. . . which she greeted with wide-eyed amazement and the further observation. . . "if he's sittin' in the shade, he wouldn't see his shadow and wouldn't know he should go back in his hole for another six weeks". . . just about the time that had sunk in. . . she broke out this one: . . . "And I suppose he'd just keep on coming out and would freeze to death."

So, if you're been worrying about the groundhog seeing his shadow all these years. . . and dashing back into his burrow while six weeks more of cold weather chills the outer air. . . you can start worrying about the position of the sun and the shade over his den, too. . . yes, leave it to a blue-eyed blonde to complicate things.

SOLDIER VOTING FIGHT HEATS UP

Administration in Comeback After Receiving Jolt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The administration's federal ballot bill for the armed services won its first Senate test today with defeat of a "state's rights" amendment aimed at restoring local registration and poll tax payments as voting qualifications for those in uniform.

The roll call vote was 68 to 23 against the amendment, first of a host of changes projected at the administration-backed Green-Lucas bill which would send a uniform federal ballot to military voters.

The amendment, offered by Senator Overton (D-La.), would have given state election laws complete control over the validity of the federal ballots.

The Senate test victory for the administration bill came less than a week after the House rejected a similar measure.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The full import of Washington's action in halting oil shipments to Spain was brought home to the Spanish people today as private automobiles and motorcycles in the nation were ordered off the streets at once to conserve fuel.

Dispatches from Spain said the order had been published in all Spanish papers and broadcast repeatedly by radio. Gasoline supplies for taxis also were reduced, and police began halting all traffic.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Plans of Governor John W. Bricker, of Ohio, to carry his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination into the South have been disclosed here, along with word that Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska might be receptive to the GOP vice presidential candidacy.

Bricker made known his plans for a southern trip during a visit yesterday. He said he would make two or three speeches in Miami, Fla., March 14.

Informality Marks Russian Soviet Much the Same As U. S. Congress

By EDDY GILMORE

GRAND PALACE OF THE KREMLIN, Moscow, Jan. 29.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The most impressive thing about this glittering scene of the supreme Soviet is just how far these people have come since the revolution—the ease with which peasants and laborers have shifted into this once sparkling court of the czars. Premier Stalin, immaculate in a fawn-colored marshal's uniform, the son of a poor Georgian, sits on a handsome carpeted platform in the exact spot where the czars once were crowned. . . There is nothing tense about him or other members of the politburo, from bewhiskered little

President Kalinin to huge, towering Alexander Shcherbakov, deputy defense commissar. Stalin usually sits casually with his chin in hand, following the speaker. He crosses and uncrosses his legs, talks quietly with foreign commissar Molo-

BABY IS STRANGLED BY UNWED MOTHER

'I Hate Her,' She Says in Confession To Police

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Irma Small, 24-year-old unwed mother who came here from Bellaire, O., was arrested last night on a homicide charge in the strangulation death of her 10-month-old daughter, Sarah Jane, Assistant District Attorney Nathan Math reported.

Math quoted the pretty brunette as saying she placed one hand over the baby's mouth and choked it with the other because "I didn't want the baby—I hated her."

Police, responding to a telephone call, found the child's body in an apartment where Miss Small lived with her two sisters.

She named the baby's father, Math said, but said she did not know where he was.

BOCK BEER, SPRING SIGN, NEWEST WAR CASUALTY

CINCINNATI, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Bock beer, long a herald of spring, has become a casualty of war.

The dark and heady brew traditionally has made its appearance about St. Patrick's Day.

Russia Made Into Federation Of 16 Individual Republics In Drastic Political Upheaval

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The individual Republics within the Soviet Union were empowered to deal directly with other countries and raise their own army units under a history-making plan adopted unanimously last night by the supreme Soviet, the Russian parliament.

Foreign diplomats examining the Soviet Union's reconstruction of the relationships of its 16 Republics with the outside world today saw in the move possibilities for one of the broadest, most elastic foreign policies of any government in the world—one which could give Russia the opportunity to swing great weight in Allied councils. Increasing interest was shown in the trends the new program might take, especially whether the Soviet Union will seek to set up separate representations in the various countries with which it now has diplomatic relationships.

The proposal was placed before the supreme Soviet by foreign Commissar Molotov, who told the delegates it marked "a new step forward in the solution of the nationality question" (the problems of the numerous nationalities in the Soviet Union) and was made possible "through the successes of the Soviet Union as a whole in the war against the invader."

The reconstruction, involving revision of the 1935 constitution, gives each republic its own commissariat of national defense and foreign affairs.

Some idea of the effect of the changes was provided by Dr. Johannes Vares, president of the Estonian republic, who asserted, in approving the plan, that "the diplomats of the national republics will be guided in their work by the general principles of Soviet diplomacy."

Wilhelm Lazis, the Latvian representative, in endorsing the plan, asserted the United States still recognized the "old Fascist regime" of Latvia and said Latvia's position was not understood abroad despite the 1940 plebiscite by which it was joined to the Soviet Union.

Nikolai Gretchukha, president of the Ukrainian Republic, declared "certain western neighbors of the Ukraine" had made "unjustified claims" to part of its territory and asked the Soviet government bear in mind the desires of the people in handling this question. He evidently referred to the Soviet-Polish border problem.

In outlining the plan, Molotov said it demonstrated the strength of the Soviet Union, adding that "not every state would make such a venture." He declared national units of the Red Army previously had lacked full opportunity for national development and said "now they can be put on a firm footing."

Molotov recalled that Georgia and other republics formerly had

Crosby-Sinatra Contest Spiced By Wise Cracks

By JAMES LINDSLEY

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Somebody wrote a script for the Bing Crosby-Frank Sinatra radio broadcast last night, but the two singers found the document valuable chiefly as something to deviate from as they rollicked through a 40-minute program and kept a capacity studio audience skittering from chuckles to chor-les to forthright guffaws. Vocalist Dinah Shore made some remark about Sinatra having plenty of backbone to get where he is.

"Sure," said Bing, "as far as I can see, the guy is all backbone"—which he wasn't supposed to say at all.

RUSSIAN FORCES CROSS FRONTIER

Berlin - 'Dead City' - Hit Again By Mosquito Bombers

By RICHARD McMURRAY

American and French troops have broken through the Gustav Line north of Cassino in central Italy on a front of several miles and their Fifth Army comrades in the Rome bridgehead have advanced in some areas against stiffening German defenses. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Russians were believed surging well across the Estonian frontier after capturing Kingissepp and the border town of Kelkino.

British Mosquito bombers attacked the "dead city" of Berlin (as Stockholm dispatches called it), setting the sirens wailing for the fourth time in six nights. Western Germany also was hit. During January, the RAF alone dropped a record bomb load of 16,500 tons on Germany, 9,300 of them on Berlin.

Cracking the tough Gustav Line, 60 miles below the Rome beachhead, the Americans advanced to four miles northwest of Cassino. The position of Cassino itself became increasingly untenable with its semi-encirclement tightened.

The French radio at Algiers said troops in the Rome area had cut the main coastal railroad. The bridgehead troops last were reported fighting only 16 miles southeast of Rome. The Germans were pouring reinforcements from northern Italy.

To the west, on the Anzio bridgehead, Allied invasion troops threw back a strong German counterattack west of Littoria supported by tanks and artillery.

British troops are fighting hard near Compiene only 16 miles below Rome, and American units are at grips with the enemy near Cisterna 14 miles northeast of Anzio.

A headquarters officer declared the Germans still are building up a large force near the beachhead, and a heavy counterattack may be expected soon.

Allied reinforcements are pouring into the beachhead, now 14 miles long and eight miles deep on the average, with some prongs running considerably farther inland.

Yugoslav partisans said the Germans had mustered reserves from Greece to combat them in Dalmatia. They asserted that a Nazi offensive in Macedonia had petered out. The partisans said they were getting an increased supply of Allied war material.

The Germans announced extensive withdrawals in Russia between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ilmen; in the sector northwest of Vitebsk in White Russia; and in the Ukraine northwest of Kirovograd, near Belaya Tser-

CANTEEN HERE SMOOTHED AT LIONS MEETING

500 Cookies Served at Bus Station in First Week

Smoothing out the wrinkles in the Lions Club canteen service took nearly all the club's meeting time Tuesday night at the Country Club.

Nearly 500 cookies were served to servicemen and women at the bus station lunch counter last week and a new system of handling the service was arranged. Wives of Lions Club members will bake the cookies in rotation. Two Lions are appointed each week to call husbands of the women who are slated to bake the cookies.

The canteen is made possible through the cooperation of Mrs. Ted Pierson, proprietress of the lunch counter. Each serviceman who orders coffee is given a free package of cookies and no charge is made for the drink. Already the service has grown bigger than at first anticipated.

Half of the $100,000 bond quota set by Lions to be sold by the Army and Navy selling teams has been met already, with only one-fourth of the Lion salesmen reporting to Paul Van Voorhis and Harold McCord, scorekeepers. Eugene Smith is admiral of the Navy team, leading with $35,000. Charles Reinke heads the Army team, which has sold $20,000 in War Bonds.

The Lions club will sponsor the third in the series of Victory Sings in the high school auditorium next Sunday afternoon, it was decided at the meeting. A donation to the infantile paralysis fund was made also. A directors' meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday at Bob Terhune's cottage.

The army-released film showing actual battle conditions and the problems facing the Allies in order to win the war was projected by Dick Hayes, Dayton Power and Light Company representative, a guest at the club meeting.

direct relations with foreign states, but when they united in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics a single people's commissariat for foreign affairs was formed.

Asserting that the creation of a central commissariat to handle international affairs for all the republics had been a "necessary stage," Molotov said that the republics "have some interests which cannot be satisfied by general agreements with the Soviet Union. They will be better satisfied if they have separate commissars for foreign affairs."

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Reorganization of the Soviet union into a virtual commonwealth of nations confronts the United States and other Allied powers with a flock of new and intriguing questions which went begging for answers today in diplomatic circles.

Foremost is the question of how Moscow's revolutionary move may work to Soviet advantage in winning recognition of her asserted right to political control of the Baltic states—Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—and other border areas.

Of even greater long-range importance is this poser: Will Russia now be able to bid for 16 places at the peace table and in the eventful, hoped-for World league?

Meanwhile, will she continue to claim but one voice in such temporary international agencies as the European advisory commission set up in London late last year with British, American and Soviet membership?

It is expected that the regular Soviet ambassador will be designated to represent the 16 Republics here although some with special interests in this country may propose having their own diplomats in Washington just as members of the British commonwealth do.

SOLDIER VOTING FIGHT HEATS UP AFTER SET-BACK HANDLED ADMINISTRATION

than 24 hours after the federal ballot plan took a rebuff in the house where members turned down a roll-call vote on the issue of federal vs. state balloting.

The real battle on the Green-Lucas bill will come on a "compromise" plan, whipped up through a combination of proposals by Senators Eastland (D-Miss), Ball (R-Minn) and others. It would retain the federal ballot plan for military voters from those states which fail to waive local registration and which provide a light weight state ballot.

Backers of the Green-Lucas bill, fighting all attempts to change the measure, contend a federal ballot is the only practical voting plan for the armed services, insisting the Army and Navy would be unable to deliver the tons of individual ballots to the fighting fronts.

Yesterday, state ballot advocates scored their initial triumph in blocking an attempt to amend House rules so that a roll call vote could be had on the federal ballot issue. President Roosevelt expressed the opinion recently that a record vote should be taken and, upon being informed of yesterday's House action, chided Congress with the observation that he thought a record vote was a part of representative government.

Ohio congressmen voted 17 to 4 against a proposal—defeated yesterday 233 to 160—that a roll call vote be taken on the question of a federal ballot for members of the armed services.

All 17 against the proposal were Republicans: Representatives Bolton, Brehm, Brown, Carson, Cleveland, Elston, Griffiths, Jeffrey, Jenkins, Lewis, McCowan, McGregor, Rowe, Smith, Vorys and Welch.

Favoring the roll call were Republican George Bender and these three Democrats: Crosser, Feighan and Kirwan.

Thirty-eight of the 40 governors who replied to telegrams assured members of the Senate today their states either have made or will make special provision for absentee balloting by their citizens in the armed forces.

Home Economics Committee Appointed Tuesday

Two of the six on the candidate team were given the first and second degrees by an all-woman degree team at the Good Hope Grange meeting Tuesday night.

Mrs. Homer Sollars and Mrs. Cecil Dixon received the degree work; the other four scheduled to be given obligations could not attend the meeting because of sickness.

The new home economics committee, Mrs. Tom Braden, Mrs. Homer Rea and Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes was appointed. The committee, with Mrs. E. N. Sollars and Mrs. Loren Johnson will be the refreshment committee for the next meeting when third and fourth degree obligations will be given.

Lester Ellis, county delegate to the state grange and Loren Johnson, county business agent, made their reports at the Tuesday meeting.

Then Frankie spoke unkindly about Bing's stomach, which really isn't very pronounced, and said he wished he had it full of War Bonds, which wasn't in the script either.

Most of the asides were drowned out by studio laughter. But they were picked up by the microphone and will be heard by troops overseas, for whom the broadcast was staged. It was a "command performance" program at CBS under sponsorship of the Armed Forces Radio Service and was not released for United States consumption.

Press agents had billed the encounter as a baritone's battle of the century, but it was a fight both Crosby and Sinatra

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Two events of vast importance are demanding space in our crowded column today—the American invasion of the Marshall Islands, and the remoulding of the Soviet Union into what amounts to a commonwealth of nations.

The Russian move, which appears to confer a large degree of sovereignty on the sixteen members comprising the Union, bids fair to have far reaching effects. For one thing it might give the Soviet sixteen votes in any post-war "League of Nations" which may be created to maintain peace, whereas a government like that of the United States would have only one. There is, however, another point which, while not so obvious, strikes me as presenting momentous possibilities, and it is this:

This new commonwealth of nations seems to contemplate a wholly flexible organization—a sort of big club—which could enlarge its membership freely without any troublesome annexations or apparent infringement of the sovereignty of the new member.

Thus, for example, if countries like Yugoslavia, Bulgaria or Greece—all of which have developed strong Communist parties—want to become members of the Soviet Commonwealth, despite their geographical separation from Russia, they could do so without surrendering their independence. If this is so it would permit of a wide-spread enlargement of the Soviet Union.

I shall return to this subject in a subsequent article, but now we must take a look at the Pacific where American forces, supported by the greatest naval strength ever assembled in one place, have invaded the heart of Japan's Marshall Islands stronghold. We are hitting at the powerful bases of Roi and Kwajalein Islands, having by-passed numerous other isles with the idea that if we take the two key positions, the other bases will more or less fall of their own weight.

Marines and Army units are ashore on the Kwajalein Atoll. There is fierce fighting, but early reports were that our losses had been moderate. Indications are that our gallant invasion forces have a lot of dirty work ahead of them, for these Japanese defenses are among their strongest. The Marshalls are, of course, one of the main shields for Japan proper.

The greatest event which could grow out of this invasion—and one for which our forces in the Pacific undoubtedly are praying—would be for the Japs to rush to the rescue with the big naval fleet which they have been sheltering within the harbor of their powerful naval station of Truk, 1,200 miles west.

That would precipitate a titanic battle which would either make or break the Mikado. Should the Nipponese fleet be destroyed—and from all accounts our Pacific men-of-war are ready for a showdown—it would open the way for a direct assault on the Japanese mainland. The defense of the Japanese island kingdom then would rest mainly in her warplanes and in her naval home fleet.

Of course, if the Japs should win such a naval engagement, their lines would indeed be cast in pleasant places. It would give them a fresh lease of life and reinforce their strategy of prolonging the war with the idea of tiring out the Allies and forcing us to compromise.

However, it may well be that the barbarians of the Rising Sun won't risk their Truk fleet in such a great gamble. After all, Truk

WAR PROBLEMS ARE IMPRESSED ON ROTARY CLUB

War Department Film Shows Difficulties Ahead and Actual Battle Scenes

A graphic picturization of the war problems still ahead of the Allies was presented to the Rotary Club at its Tuesday luncheon meeting at the Country Club when a War Department film, released by the Office of War Information, was shown by Dick Keyes, Dayton Power and Light Company representative from Dayton.

The movie stressed the tremendous supply program, showing Allied production must offset the reservoirs now in German and Japanese hands if they are to be defeated.

Including battle scenes from nearly every theater in the global war—Sicily, Italy, South Pacific, Africa—the picture indicated that 1944 will be the crucial year of the conflict. It emphasized the need for every citizen to be absolutely devoted to the war effort.

Transportation as well as production problems were outlined in the 45 minute movie, giving civilians a chance to see what really keeps the troops moving up the hills of Italy and swarming beachheads like those at Tarawa and Guadalcanal.

Before the movie began, Ray Brandenburg, chairman of the blood donor committee, told Rotarians only one-half the number of donors sought had registered so far. "We've got to get started," he said as he urged all Rotary clubbers to contact members of their organizations—and give blood themselves—so the quota could be met.

F. E. Hill, chairman of the Fayette County War Finance Committee, said Fayette County, like most counties in the state, was not doing "any too well" in meeting its Fourth War Loan quota. Among the 22 counties in the district, Fayette ranks sixth in percent of total quota met and fourth in E bond quota attained.

and the surrounding Caroline Islands present a formidable barrier—so long as they are strongly held—between the Allies and both Japan and the Philippines even if we capture the Marshalls. American naval experts say the Japs can't hold the Marshalls without a daring fleet action.

A Fighting Giant

Americans, cradled in traditions of the sea, and still loyal to them though mostly inlanders now, can still thrill at the sight of a great ship. There is surely reason for thrills in the U. S. S. Missouri, the great battleship just launched in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Fittingly enough the greatest shipyard in the world is producing the world's most formidable battleship.

The Missouri, when equipped and laden, will displace 52,600 tons. Apparently she will not be bigger technically than her sister ships, the Iowa and New Jersey. But her size and power will make her a juggernaut of the sea, with unequalled fighting power and presumably with enough defensive armor to make her as nearly invulnerable as a warship can be. She will cost $100,000,000. There will certainly be something doing at sea when she is in commission, and engaged in shooting that money at any enemy who imagines he can take it.

Preparedness a Safeguard

We cannot subscribe to the contention of Charles E. Wilson of WPB that wars are inevitable, but we can agree heartily that a "full and continuing preparedness after this war" is the only safeguard against aggression.

Americans always will strive for a durable peace, but this endeavor need not be impaired by the ability to wage war victoriously and at a moment's notice. A nation that is ready for war is more likely to be allowed to pursue its peaceful pursuits than one whose pacifism encourages a potential foe to plan a stab in the back in the hope of a quick victory.

Preparedness is costly, but not as costly as war, especially for an unprepared nation.

No wars are not inevitable. No nation will start a war unless it is confident of victory. If the United States keeps its wealth it will be the most able to discourage aggression. Such a policy would cost less than an effort to convert the world through a share-the-wealth policy which theoretically would make everyone happy.

Need for Waste Paper

The matter of saving wastepaper is not to be taken lightly as merely another campaign which somebody started merely to be doing something.

The paper problem is growing serious. It is not sufficient to say that the government itself is wasting a lot of paper. That may be true but the nation is still facing a growing shortage regardless of the fact that there is waste going on.

Waste and paper are two words that fit as well together in the American language as ham and eggs. But for war purposes they now have to be taken apart. We are asked not to waste paper.

The reasons are, first, that production of wood pulp, both in this country and in Canada, is down and going lower; second, that war uses of paper are up and going higher.

needs 81 tons of supplies a month, as compared with 43 tons during the last war. A good part of these supplies has to be wrapped in paper or packed in cartons or paperboard: small arms ammunition, shells, field rations and so on for hundreds of items.

To make sure there is enough the War Production Board has asked American housewives to save 100,000 tons of waste paper every month—extra. Sixteen thousand and voluntary local salvage committees throughout the country will handle the job. The public is asked to save all kinds of paper, cardboard, and cartons, keep them dry, make them as neat, flat and compact as possible. Newspapers and magazines are included.

Something to think about if this seems a bother: 100 pounds of waste paper will make 650 cartons for field ration "K", 115 boxes each containing 20 mm. shells, 50 containers for 75 mm. shells.

It's too late to learn when you think you know it all!

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Over at the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, they are piling up a file on one of the amazing industrial stories of this war. Much of it is a military secret, but some of it can be told now. It's the search for tantalite in the scorched mountains of north-eastern Brazil.

Few people ever heard of tantalite. It was virtually unknown in 1927, when it was commercially mined for the first time. It wasn't until 1940 that it became a vital war mineral, sought by every nation. However, since our enemies don't know to what use we are putting it, very little can be said.

Tantalite is well named, having the same root as the word tantalize. It is an acid-proof member of the vanadium family and although it is sometimes referred to as black gold, it's more precious.

It is hard to find, deposits of it being buried with other minerals in the sun-scorched rocky ridges or sub-surface alluvial deposits of Brazil's tree-barren "sertao" (interior). Once found it is tantalizing to mine. What seem to be bonanzas peter out before they have produced a ton and often deposits, that hardly seem worth mining, develop into true bonanzas.

Since Pearl Harbor, geologists have been scouring a 3,600-square mile area, but they report that it's like hunting for the proverbial needle in a rock strewn furnace, not unlike parts of Arizona. The inaccessibility of the Brazilian sertao adds to the difficulty. It is all but impossible to get heavy machinery into the country and the ore out. It is being done so effectively that Brazil is producing now 52 per cent of the world's tantalite and since Australia and South Africa are the only other known sources, the Allies have it all. At present nearly all the work is done by hand. More than 8,000 Brazilian natives are employed in the mines, picking out the ore, hand-crushing and hand-washing it in sluices similar to those our early gold miners used in the west and Alaska. Water for the washing, which separates the heavy mineral from its neighbors, has to come from deep wells and often has to be lugged for miles in casks on the backs of burros.

It's by burro express, too, that the sacked tantalite has to be taken out. At Natal, U. S. military transport planes wait impatiently to pick up the mineral.

It takes 3,000 tons of ore to produce one ton of tantalite and although the natives receive only 390 cents a day, mine owners are hard put to make a profit. Every time it appears, the war is nearing its end, the tantalite producers want to quit and turn to more profitable and less troublesome metals.

Most Dyspepsia Not Organic

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"DYSPEPSIA is the solace of the lonely, the despair of the stomach specialist," my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, says:

"It is pure tragedy to see the deterioration of a nice young fellow."

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

low who has been fascinated in medical school by the actions of the digestive tract, and has therefore decided to specialize in digestive diseases. He expects all his patients will have some real disease of the stomach or intestine or gallbladder, or some chemical derangement of secretion that he can adjust after careful study. And then it gradually dawned on him after he has been in practice some time that most of the people he is spending his valuable time on are just belly-achers.

"After all that is what dyspepsia is, isn't it—belly-aching?"

Stomach Diseases

"It is true that a certain proportion of dyspepsias do suffer from a real organic disease. Ulcer is the only common one of the stomach. The less said about cancer of the stomach the better. Dropped stomach occasionally gives trouble, but so many of them produce no symptoms at all that the subject is as dead as Hitler's plans for Russia. The intestines also have a select few organic diseases, but the surgeon grabs them before the stomach specialist has a chance.

"Then there is reflex dyspepsia. Our remote ancestors in the animal kingdom were nothing but stomachs once, and most of us have never got over that—whenever anything is wrong anywhere in the body it goes right to the stomach—a bad posture, a tilted womb, a curved back, a touch of the flu.

"Here is where your old friend the gallbladder comes in. I have heard it said that gallbladder disease is the commonest cause of dyspepsia. It does not show itself as a frank gallbladder attack, colic or pain. More usually it is gas and bloating. You ask a person what is the matter and he says—'Gas, gas, gas!' You can answer—'Gallstones, gallstones, gallstones!' Or just mild inflammation of the gallbladder.

"Then they have sour stomach, and heartburn, spells of nausea, and similar spells that they rightly call 'bilious,' irregular appetite, headache, and such. They seldom get relief from food as does your ulcer patient. Abstaining from food gives the most relief.

Nervous Dyspepsia

"But I think the nervous dyspeptic leads the list, both in numbers and troublesomeness. You often wonder how they get that way. Not a few times it's bred in them. I remember a patient—a woman who claimed to have fierce indigestion. I couldn't find anything wrong with her, but she wanted pills. Finally the story came out. She adored her father. From her description he must have looked like Dore's pictures of God. Anything such a creature said or did must be divine. As a little girl it was her regular duty at meal time to go to the sink and get a red pill for him to take before meals and a blue one afterwards. Otherwise he claimed his meal wouldn't digest. That became a fixation with her."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. E. S.—The first symptom of diabetes is, I believe, excessive thirst. Will you please trace the development of the disease step by step through later stages?

Answer—There is no rule about the first symptoms of diabetes. It may be thirst, increased urination, or loss of weight, or one of the complications—diminished vision, boils, ulcers of the toes or coma. The exact course of the disease without treatment is unpredictable—it depends on age of patient and severity of the disease.

C. H.—Our son, 14 years old, was caught smoking. He now says it is a habit and he can't give it up. We think it is a health hazard and dulls his mind. He claims his acquaintances, boys 14 to 16, all smoke and their parents overlook it or approve.

Answer—I wish that Solomon had answered this question instead of that silly and useless one about who was the mother of the child. This is a problem which has regrettably disrupted the American home since the days of Sweet Caporal. I don't know how to handle it, but here are some facts: tobacco is not deeply habit-forming. Anybody can give it up without any suffering. Every boy says the parents of the other boys overlook it. The other boys probably tell their parents that you overlook it. And, lastly, to the parents in order to calm your minds—smoking at 14 is not a serious health hazard, and it does not dull the mind.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

EARLY THE following morning Mallory lay in bed, not sleeping, but thinking deeply about the events of the night before. Although Richard Blythe had stayed, talking and planning, until almost 2 o'clock, the girl did not feel sleepy. She was too excited.

Blythe's assumption that the man murdered could easily have been someone dressed as a peon proved his cleverness. No wonder he could grab his briefcase and zip around on planes while persons as famous as Mallory Baker were unceremoniously dumped.

"Do you suppose those two criminals actually believe no one was in their apartment last night? She had asked him that just before he departed."

"I'm not sure, although it is highly probable. They have been here so long and carried on their work with such a lack of interference that they naturally become over-confident. Then, of course, is when we catch them. You see, Mallory, the German people have been here for many years, establishing friendships and good feeling. Their money is here. They have intermarried. Their children go to the schools. The spies are highly cultured, brilliant. They call themselves by other names—archeologists, for example."

"And you call yourself an engineer," the girl said.

"How you do catch on! And I actually am, but working at that makes it so much easier to see what is going on, not only here in town, but in the sticks. Too, the government here does not appreciate our working in. I must say, though, that when someone is called to their attention as a threat to our good neighbor policy they liquidate them quicker than a snail."

"It is a pride, entirely understandable, that they wish to do their own snooping." His grin had flashed at Mallory, a brief one with teasing, sarcastic quality she remembered from the plane trip. "I've no more business telling you these things than I have baking a cake at high noon in the Socalo."

"Yes, you do. After what I've told you, I am your confederate." The grin flashed again. "Then, as my confederate, be more careful. You were the one who left the door open last night when you left the Smith apartment."

Mallory's retaliation was swift. "Yes, as super-brain, should have made certain it was closed when I left." His blush proved she was right. She returned to a former worry. "It seems odd they wouldn't be suspicious about my pretending a social call. It was nearly midnight."

"Oh, I don't know," Blythe said airily. "They are noted in the capital as ladies' men and, after all, you did lambast them with a special brand of eye fluttering."

"It was Mallory's turn to blush. "Oh, go home!" she said in a peevish voice. "But don't forget," she added with discretion, "to come back. We have work to do."

Mallory looked at her watch. It was past eight now. She wondered why Prism was not up. Usually at this hour Mallory was able to hear, through the dimness of her slumber, Prism and Armando in the kitchenette, having breakfast and carrying on endless discussions. Prism learning Spanish and Armando learning Prism-English. But this morning there was not a sound.

The singer was just ready to go peep into the kitchenette when Armando rang the doorbell. She knew it was he, because the chime was quick, apologetic, not wishing to disturb. After a few seconds of silence Mallory realized Prism was not going to answer. She pulled on the squirrel lined housecoat and went herself.

"Buenos dias," beamed Armando. Quickly he recovered. "Ah, it is the senorita. I thought it would be my good friend, Prism." He stepped inside and bowed deeply to his employer. "We speak sometimes in Spanish."

"How nice," said Mallory, quaking inwardly at what she could have endured from her maid in the future. "Come into the kitchen with me, Armando and we'll see what is keeping Prism so silent." Prism was silent in the kitchen because she wasn't even there. "I shall look in her bedroom. Wait for me, Armando."

When she returned, the Mexican boy was getting eggs and milk from the refrigerator. "I always help," he explained.

"You may have to do more than help," the singer said. "Prism is still sleeping. She was so sick last night that I haven't the heart to wake her, much as I'd like to. I have a rehearsal at the Palace of Fine Arts at 10."

"Let Prism sleep. She is a good servant. She deserves a rest. Do not be nervous, senorita. Do not frown. Let your face be in sweet repose as if the angels had kissed it while you slept." He found a bowl and an egg beater. "Do not worry. Armando will attend to everything."

"You see," he exclaimed approximately an hour later, "how lucky you are to have me, senorita, how you have a fortune in me. I fix you the pineapple juice, the omelette, the rich chocolate and the toast. And now I drive you to your destination. Ah, you are indeed lucky to have me," he sighed with a total lack of modesty.

With his usual skill Armando guided the automobile through the maze in the streets and reached the vast cement covered parking area in front of the Palace of Fine Arts. Sandy was waiting at the bottom of the ornamental marble steps, apparently admiring the lavish sculptured decorations—the many identical columns, the pedestals, the Grecian maidens in tunics and swirling draperies with flower garlands in their hands. But when Mallory stepped up beside Sandy he made no comment on any of that magnificence.

"I don't know how they can print such small letters," he deplored, gazing dolorously at the large advertising placard propped on an easel near the entrance. He flung his arms wide. "Mallory Baker," he proclaimed. His arms came back to normal. He measured a scant inch between his thumb and forefinger. "And that for poor old Sandy."

"You know I have nothing to do with the billing. Jump on Tod Patrick."

"You don't know the half of it, pal." "Pal?" relished Armando. "Even my good friend Prism has not taught me that."

"It is like your word amigo. Friend, a close friend." As he spoke Sandy felt Mallory's grasp on his arm in the present that meant, "Get me away from here!" Her laughter, that seemed so easy, was distinctly professional to Sandy's trained ears, as if turned out from some splendid machine. The man waited for the seventh "La," as he termed it. She always "La'd" seven times.

When she finished he intercepted swiftly. "Sorry, but Miss Baker has an important rehearsal! With that he led her on. "Those women now are thinking. That sweet Mallory Baker. She wanted to stay with us. But that nasty man dragged her away. No wonder no one likes me."

"Huh! No one likes you? That's why you invariably take seven or eight curtain calls when you solo De Falla's 'Fire Dance'."

As soon as she had said it she was sick. "How insufferable I am," she deplored. "What a rotten thing this career life is. I'm going to give it up. Yes. I'll marry Carlos and give it up."

Understand Your Federal Income Tax

DEPRECIATION (PART 1)

Among the deductions allowed in arriving at net income for Federal income tax purposes is depreciation. Depreciation may be sustained in connection with property giving rise to rental income shown in item 7 of return Form, 1040, or property used in business or profession, the net profit (or loss) from which is shown in item 3. The property must, of course, be owned by the taxpayer.

As relates to Federal income taxes, depreciation is an allowance for exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in a trade or business, or of property held for the production of income. The purpose underlying allowances for depreciation is to permit the taxpayer to recover over the useful life of the property the capital sum invested therein. The terms "used in trade or business" or "held for the production of income" would include property held for such purposes though actually not in use during the taxable year. Depreciation deductions are not allowable on property used for personal purposes, such as a residence or its furnishings, or automobile or pleasure craft. However, if a taxpayer moves out of his house and rents it, it would become a rental property upon which a depreciation deduction would be allowable; or if a taxpayer used his car in part for business purposes, then a portion of the depreciation on the car, depending upon the relative use for business purposes, would be allowable.

A distinction must be made between depreciation and what may be called fluctuation in value. In the case of an automobile, it is commonly said that once a car has been driven from a dealer's showroom it becomes a second-hand car, and by that fact may lose a considerable amount of its value. However, only that part of the loss in value which is due to actual exhaustion, wear and tear in business use, during the year, may be deducted as depreciation.

A further requirement in determining depreciation is that the property must have a limited and determinable useful life in the trade or business. Land, for instance, upon which a building is erected, is not depreciable, since it has no determinable life.

In depreciation deductions, the amount claimed must be supported by the data called for in Schedule C(1) and C(2) on page 2 of the return Form 1040. This schedule requires a statement of the kind of property being depreciated, the date acquired, the cost or other basis used in computing depreciation, the depreciated value at the end of the year, the depreciation allowed or allowable in prior years, and the remaining cost or other basis to be recovered, as well as the estimated life used in accumulating depreciation and the estimated remaining life at the beginning of the year.

INFORMALITY MARKS RUSSIAN SOVIET MUCH SAME AS U. S. CONGRESS

...often smiles and nods his head at something one of his colleagues says. Oddly, no one ever treats him with awe, but refers to him as 'Tovarisich Stalin,' just as does every Russian.

A little girl on my hotel floor stopped me in the hall. "You're going to the Kremlin," said a young-year-old Anna. "If you see 'Tovarisich Stalin,' please give him my greeting and tell him my friends and I in school thank him and think he's the biggest man in the world."

I told Anna I would certainly tell him that—if I talked to him. There's lots of similarity between a supreme Soviet meeting and the opening days of the United States Congress.

You have to show a special press card at the Kremlin gate, then make your own way to the great palace. You show the card to a uniformed policeman again and deposit your hat and coat at a stand for correspondents. An elevator takes you to the press box door.

There is the same buzz of conversation on the floor, the same greetings between delegates, backslaps and jokes, then seriousness as the session gets underway. Looking down on the delegates from the gallery you get the same impression you do in Congress—lots of baldheaded gents.

Score awards were given to Mrs. Robert Craig and Mrs. Colin Campbell at the close of the evening and the guests departed at a late hour, reluctant to leave such a pleasant gathering.

TOUGH FIGHT LIKELY BEFORE MARSHALLS CLEANED UP OF JAPS

pre-invasion bombings of every Marshalls airbase, plus raids on Kusaie Island in the Carolines to the west and Wake Island to the north, from which the enemy might retaliate.

But with control of the sea and airplanes throughout the Central Pacific wrested from the Japanese, it is the soldier fighting with his rifle, grenades and bayonet and supported by tanks who will finally capture the Marshalls.

Despite bold new tactics, new types of landing boats, new weapons, troops still must make landing through machinegun and artillery fire, must secure the beachheads and push forward, often yard by yard, against concentrated firing and grenading from an enemy to whom the invaders' whereabouts can be no secret.

It will be that willingness to die which will capture the Marshalls—which will drive Marines and soldiers into and through concentrated fire to knock out pillboxes and blockhouses with flamethrowers and grenades.

By LEIF ERICKSON

By The Associated Press

ABOARD U. S. FLAGSHIP

OFF KAWAJALEIN ATOLL,

Marshalls Islands, Feb. 1.—(Delayed)—War correspondents covering the Marshalls Islands invasion were able for the first time in this war to transmit by on-the-spot radio immediate eyewitness accounts of a Pacific action.

Shipboard radio communication was provided on a pool basis for the three U. S. news services—the Associated Press, United Press and International News Service—and Reuters, British news agency, by order of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific war theater.

Radioing correspondents' stories directly from battle while fighting progresses is doubly significant.

First it demonstrates the desire of the Navy command to inform the people at home quickly and in detail on the performance of the fighting Navy ships, Army soldiers and the Marines against the Japanese.

Second, the plain fact that Adm. Nimitz authorized the radioing of independent, civilian correspondents' accounts from enemy waters shows the Navy command's confidence that the warship armada and aerial power supporting the Kwajalein invasion landings can manhandle the enemy opposition.

A Pacific naval spokesman insists that the Navy desires to "get the news out" as fast as possible within requirements of security.

"We've got so much stuff and power now we don't have to give much of a damn what we tell the Japs," the spokesman said. "What he does find out will scare him."

"What else can I do to help?"

Of course, you are helping now! Buying War Bonds, working for the Red Cross, giving time to Civilian Defense. But there are other ways you can help—right in your daily homemaking routine. We suggest three that are vitally important:

SAVE FOOD

Plant a victory garden and preserve your surplus.

Put up as many fruits and berries as possible. Your Gas range makes canning easy.

Cook only the amount of vegetables needed. Serve left-overs creamed, in casserole dishes, or cold—in salads.

Cook vegetables and fruits in their skins whenever possible—and over a low Gas flame.

Roast meats at low temperature in your Gas oven to reduce shrinkage. Use left-overs in stews, hash, meat pies.

SAVE VITAMINS

...you need 'em to be strong.

Cook vegetables in as small an amount of boiling water as possible. The flexible Gas flame will give you the exact degree of heat you need.

Cover vegetables and bring to boil quickly over full Gas flame then turn flame low, cook gently.

Do not use soda in cooking green vegetables. It destroys vitamins. Cook vegetables shortest possible time.

Store fresh vegetables in hydrator of your Gas refrigerator to help preserve perishable vitamins.

WE'LL BE GLAD TO HELP YOU with specific information on how to cook and process food for wartime meals.

GAS is vital to war production... use it wisely!

THE Red army soccer team may bring Russia into international sports competition even before the war ends. That's just a rumor brought back from Moscow by radio correspondent Bill Downs, but he thinks it's a good one.

cussions at Tuesday night's meeting that not only had the field trial provided summertime sport for the 'coon hunters but had added considerably to the treasury balance.

That discussion led up to the important decision of the meeting—that the association purchase 50 raccoons caught in the Florida woods to be released here. They were described as "big, rangy coons that will weigh from eight to 20 pounds."

Handicapped by a shortage of replacements, the Lions put up a good brand of competition until Steele, Carlson and Whitmore went out on personal fouls.

HOOSIERS NOSE OUT BUCKEYES

A pair of nip and tuck basketball games, in which the winner of each racked up 23 points, rewarded the fair-sized crowd that gathered at the Armory Tuesday night for the regular round of games on the API Men's League schedule.

With Whaley setting the pace, assisted by Coleman and Crissinger, the Boilermakers edged out the Ramblers, 23 to 16, in the first tilt and in the second game, the Hoosiers, sparked by Priest, set back the Buckeyes, 23 to 19.

The game between teams of girls was called off because of illness among the players.

The Boilermakers set up a three-man offense with Whaley in the key position from which he looped in five from the field for a 10-point total while Coleman added three from the field and Coleman two plus two from the foul line for six points apiece.

The game between the Hoosiers and Buckeyes was hotly contested from start to finish.

The Hoosiers forged into a 9 to 6 lead in the first period and managed to hang to it to the end in spite of dogged perseverance by the Buckeyes.

In addition to the 50 'coons to be imported from Florida, the association has bought seven that were uninjured from trappers during the past season and released them.

Most, though not all, of the association members get their chief sport in 'coon hunting with dogs.

Compared to the smoothly operating Greenfield machine, the Lion passing was ragged. Unable to relax because of over-anxiousness, they frequently juggled the ball long enough to break up the timing or, in some cases, lose possession of it.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—AP—Rains over the grain belt, increasing speculation on the possibility of early opening of Great Lakes navigation and a report that Argentine wheat was going into the southeast for livestock feeding combined to depress grain futures today. Rye was under the most pressure.

Selling expanded late in the session and wheat was down almost a cent and rye was off more than a cent. Oats, which had displayed strength early, eased with the general market.

Reports from principal terminals said there was a good demand for cash wheat with ceiling prices paid for low protein grain.

140 MORE BLOOD DONORS NEEDED BEFORE MONDAY

Registrations Taken by Phone At 8611 Between 3 P. M. And 8 P. M.

Wednesday, halfway through the last week of registration for blood donors, saw 200 men and women signed up to give a pint of blood to the Army or Navy when the mobile unit comes to Grace Church Monday and Tuesday, 140 short of the goal.

Dr. E. H. McDonald, Washington C. H. physician, says "any healthy man or woman in the proper age bracket—18 to 60—who would not gladly and willingly donate blood for this purpose is as much of a slacker as the several thousand young men who are drifting from town to town to dodge their draft boards."

In an editorial printed in the Gingersnap, Rotary Club publication, Dr. McDonald says: "Of all voluntary services rendered by civilians for the men in the Armed Forces the donation of blood should give the most satisfaction. These men and women are sending a part of their own bodies to the front lines to serve not only in saving the lives of thousands of our men but by enormously increasing their morale. All other things being equal, in battle it is morale that decides the issue. Our boys certainly enter any engagement with the enemy with greater confidence and less trepidation when they know that immediately behind them is their streamlined medical service with every facility and material for first aid and rapid transportation to field hospitals. They are, also, aware of the fact that after the control of hemorrhage, if possible, the immediate administration of this plasma from the blood streams of thousands of their home folks will save them from death due to shock."

"With due consideration for all other life saving agents, including the sulfonamides and the scarce penicillin, blood plasma is by far the most important. Since the amount of plasma required to treat a single wounded soldier may amount to as much as that derived from the blood of several donors it is apparent that an enormous blood bank reserve is imperative. Any healthy man or woman, in the proper age bracket, who would not gladly and willingly donate blood for this purpose is as much of a 'slacker' as the several thousand young men who are drifting from town to town to dodge their Draft Boards."

Registration may be made by calling Miss Clara Story at 8611 between 3 P. M. and 8 P. M.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? YES NO
Do you feel headachy after eating?
Do you get sour or upset easily?
Do you feel tired—listless?
Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.
Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.
Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

Wednesday, was sideswiped by an auto-mobile driven by a man named Seaman, of Greenfield, headed to-ward this city, and both vehicles damaged considerably, the auto-mo-bile being almost ruined.

DRAFT DODGERS ARE FACING PRISON TERM

John Wade Grubb, 29 and James Matthew Grubb, 22, brothers, Circleville were found guilty by a jury in federal court at Col-umbus, of violating the national selective service act.

The brothers, identified with Jehovah's Witnesses, failed to re-fuse for induction. The defense of-fered was that both were ordain-ed ministers of the gospel and therefore not required to bear arms.

Possible lengthy prison terms are being faced by the pair.

4TH WAR LOAN

Let's all BACK THE ATTACK!

To All B & O Men and Women:

America's fighting men—millions of them—are on the front lines shooting it out with the enemy. Other millions are girding for the attack on Western Europe, for one of the most desperate battles ever fought.

Meantime it's the home front job to encourage these men—all we can, in every way we can.

One way we can ALL do this is through the Fourth War Loan. Uncle Sam asks us to "buy an extra bond" during this campaign, and also to increase our payroll allotment for the systematic purchase of bonds.

You can buy your "extra bond" from your local bank or postoffice. Or you can buy it through the B & O by using the payroll allotment card and ordering the denomination bond you wish purchased from your February pay.

You can also sign a new card to increase the monthly investments you are making for War Bonds, if you desire.

Don't forget—they are offering to give their all. What are we willing to lend?

SUNNYSIDE P-TA HEADS PARADE OF BOND BUYERS

Tops List of Organizations In Amount of War Bonds Purchased

Sunnyside P.T. A. heads the parade of organizations in the county in point of War Bond Sales, Mrs. Martha Reiff, chair-man of women's activities, said today. The P.T. A. has account-ed for the purchase of $4025 in War Bonds.

Rating second is the Business and Professional Women's Club, with $3,000. The True Blue Class of the Methodist Church comes next with $1175.

These totals, however, are much lower than ones at this point in the Fourth War Loan drive, Mrs. Reiff points out. "We make a weekly report to state headquarters on the progress of women's clubs and other or-ganizations made in selling bonds—and Fayette County isn't showing up at all well," she said.

She explained each club mem-ber, or non-member, wishing to give bond credit to any par-ticular organization should call the bond chairman of the club to notify her the bond has been purchased. Otherwise, there is no way of checking the bonds with which an organization is credited, she added.
"People wonder why it is necessary to check where they buy bonds—it isn't that we want to be curious, but that the in-formation is necessary for the reports we send in," Mrs. Reiff said.
